MAN DURING HIS LAS VEGAS VISIT

Police Captain Stayed in Nevada When Under Orders to Pick Up Prisoner in Los Angeles.

Detective Capt. William Greenspan, assigned by the Police Department last January to go to Los Angeles to pick up a prisoner, stopped off in Las Vegas, Nev., sending another St. Louis police officer to pick up the man, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

The policeman who accompanied Greenspan on the western trip was Sgt. Frank Eresh. He continued on to Los Angeles at Greenspan's direction, took charge of the prisoner and returned to Las Vegas. Greenspan and Eresh then came back to St. Louis with the man.

Police officials had learned Police officials had learned that Greenspan stopped over in Las Vegas on his trip, but it was not until recently that they were informed he sent Eresh on alone to Los Angeles. LONDON, Oct. 31 (UP)-A royal announcement said to-night that Princess Margaret will not marry Royal Air Force Group Capt. Peter Townsend. The announcement came from Clarence House, the official residence of the Princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Margaret's statement made it clear that she loved Townsend, but it also made clear she gave him up for Church and Crown.

This was the abdication of King Edward VIII in reverse. Edward gave up his throne in 1936 for the love of American divorcee Wallis Warfield Simpson. Margaret renounced the man she loved for her royal duty as a princess of the reigning house and third in line of succession to the crown.

It was a sacrifice of a young girl's first love for an old kingdom's fierce pride. For Townsend, it was tragedy.

Former Sultan Returns to France From Exile in Madagascar, Greeted by French and Arab Leaders.

NICE, France, Oct. 31 (AP)
—Former Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who has become a symbol of flaming nationalism for Moroccans, returned to France from exile in Madagascar today amid strong signs he shortly will be returned to his throne.

The 41-year-old Moslem, deposed two years ago by the French, arrived on a four-engined plane with his two wives, seven concubines, two sons, four daughters and 23 servants. He was greeted by a stream of French and Arab notables.

His aging uncle, Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa, who succeeded him as sultan in August 1953, renounced his rights to bring back Ben Youssef.

The French Government itself appeared in diplomatic retreat from its position of two years ago when it exiled the soverign for his nationalist sympathies.

Tight Security Net.

Some 800 police enforced the tighest security restrictions ever witnessed at Nice airport as Ben Youssef splane roiled to a stop.

The ex-sultan talked for 20 minutes inside the plane with French officials who climbed aboard. Then, he appeared at the door in a blue robe and was greeted by a great shout from about 200 Arab nationalists who had been allowed on the field.

Leading the French delegation was Henri Yrissou, right hand man to Foreign Minister.

The impasse threatened to disrupt Faure's plans to hold nation-wide elections early in per December rather than next June as originally scheduled.

June as originally scheduled.

A luncheon meeting of party leaders at Faure's offices failed to find a compromise solution. Each party had its own proposals for revising the election system that has given France splinter groups in the Assembly and a series of shaky governments since World War II. In a three-bour meeting this afternoon, the Assembly, which was agreed to disband itself on condition that the electoral system be changed, voted down five reform plans.

He had not brought the company and the union together since last Wednesday when the union membership rejected a company offer of 13 cents an hour wage increase, plus other contract improvements.

A company spokesman said the management committee was ready to renew the wage conference. There was no indication of any change in the company's position.

The 2600 employes affected by the long negotiations went on strike Oct. 11, after a public hearing panel recommended a graduated 12-cent increase. The company was seized by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly under the King-Thompson law and has been operated since then by Rogers as the Governor's representative.

Present wage rates are $1.87 an hour for bus and streetcar operators and $2.12 for mechanics. The union originally demanded an increase of 26 cents an hour, which was scaled down to 17 cents through negotiations. Other issues involve an additional paid holiday and compensation for operators serving as instructors.

Among cities with populations of 750,000 to 1,000,000, St. Louis had 2.6 deaths for each-10,000 registered vehicles; Cleveland had 2.7 and San Francisco 2.8.

Through Oct. 2, the number of motor vehicle accident deaths here for the year was 64. That was 10 less than for the same period of 1954. As of today, the total has reached 73. There were 102 motor fatalities in St. Louis last year.

Over the nation, there were 3530 traffic deaths in September, the worst record for the month since September of 1941, when 3746 persons were killed. The death total for the nation was 27,060 for the first nine months, exceeding last year's figure for the period by 6 per cent. Quickly, Townsend went openly to see Margaret. Many took this as a token of Margaret's intention to marry him, despite the opposition of Church, Crown and family.

The announcement was made after Margaret and the divorced commoner had returned to London this morning from the Sussex home of Lord Rupert Nevill and his wife. Shorfly after the couple's return to London today, Townsend rushed off to Clarence House, to see his beloved again.

At Doctors Hospital, however, Dr. John W. Prutting said Mrs. Woodward, overcome with shock after the shooting, is "still very weak" and is being fed intravenable. He expressed the opinion "there is no rush" about questioning her further.

Inspector Pinnell said the "current belief is that the shooting was accidental," but "we are still investigating."

"We have come across nothing to indicate ill feeling between them," he added.

From Mrs. Woodward's fragmentary answers and from Continuing a steady recovery from the heart attack he suffered Sept. 24, Mr. Eisenhower walked more than 100 feet this morning, pacing at will around his hospital room. It was the longest distance he has walked thus far.

The hospital bulletin said the The hospital bulletin said the President's morning examinations showed his pulse and blood pressure to be normal. The bulletin said the President's "prothrombin time is at a satisfactory level," meaning that the anti-coagulant medicines given him to prevent blood clots are working.

Denver.

Beginning what could be his last full week in the hospital, Mr. Eisenhower's actions indicated he might now be well enough to resume his role as chief political spokesman for his party.

Longest Walk.

Yesterday the President took his longest unassisted walk thus far in his recovery period. He also shaved himself standing up for the first time. The walk of about 30 to 40 feet apparantly was a spout proper idea. ently was a spontaneous idea of Mr. Eisenhower's. He had been rolled in a wheelchair out of his room and down the hos-pital corridor to a room which Mrs. Eisenhower has occupied during the illness.

As the President was rolled out of the room he got out of the wheelchair and walked back the wheelchair and walked back to his own quarters. It was the first time he had walked outside his room. Earlier in the day Mr. Eisenhower walked from his bed to the bathroom for the first time and shaved standing up. Previously he had shaved sitting in bed.

The signs of his steady improvement coincided with evidence that the President now wants to speak out for himself on political issues confronting his Administration, and that his doctors feel he is able to do so. Mr. Eisenhower in conferences with Secretary of State John Mr. Eisenhower in conferences with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and other cabinet members already has demon-strated that he was again ac-tively directing foreign and domestic policy.

But until this weekend the meetings with his advisers ap-parently avoided controversial subjects. Cabinet members who visited the President were unan-imous in saying afterwards that political issues were not dis-cussed.

Hogerty, however, lifted the bar on discussing controversial subjects on Saturday, saying it "no longer holds."

"no longer holds."

Mr. Eisenhower followed the same day with an emphatic indorsement of the farm policies of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, marking the first time he has spoken out on a domestic issue with political overtones since he was stricken. The President approved a sixpoint program outlined by Benson to aid farmers caught in a "cost-price squeeze" due to the decline in farm prices. Mr. Eisenhower indicated the procost-price squeeze due to the decline in farm prices. Mr. Eisenhower indicated the program would supplement, not replace, the Republican-backed system of lower flexible price supports on basic farm products. His support of Benson apparently made the farm issue a clear-cut one for next year's elections. Whether or not Mr. Eisenhower runs again he will be squarely identified with farm price supports at lower than 90 per cent parity.

On the other side Adlai E. Stevenson and Gov. Averill Harriman of New York, considered the leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination have both spoken out in favor of rigid farm price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

Benson has been under fire from some Democrats and a few Republicans in farm states. The President's indorsement indicated he would give short shrift to complaints from within his own party.

President Should Tell by Winter Whether He Will Run Again, Senator Says.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (UP)
— Senate Republican Leader
William F. Knowland of Callfornia suggested today that President Eisenhower should make an early announcement of his 1956 political plans.

If the President should decide against seeking re-election because of his heart attack, Knowland believes that the G.O.P.
should be given plenty of time to look over available candidates before the San Francisco convention next August.

Knowland did make clear that he thinks any retirement announcement from Mr. Eisenhower should come by late fall or early winter. The deadlines for candidates to enter presidential primaries in some of the states come early in February.

the states come early in February.

"In the event that the President should not be a candidate," Knowland said, "I think the party and the country are entitled to sufficient time to make their own appraisals.

"Republicans throughout the country in primaries and their state conventions should have a choice of alternatives."

On the other side of the political fence, Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, told reporters today that Republicans "ought to be indicted for murder in the first degree" if they "force" Mr. Eisenhower to seek a second term

Douglas also showed no enthusiasm for the line being taken by some Southern Democrats who are calling for a "middle-of-the road" platform and presidential candidate in 1956.

Another Democrat, Gov.
George M. Leader fo Pennsylvania, predicted that his state's delegation to the Democratic national convention next August will be almost solid for Adlai E. Stevenson.

Leader declared that he believes Stevenson is "the right man in the right place at the right time for 1956."

At Duluth. Minn., yesterday, Stevenson refused to give a flat "yes" or "no" response to a resolution urging him to enter the Minnesota presidential primary next March 20. The resolution was adopted unanimously by the state committee of the Minnesota Democratic - Farmer Labor party.

Stevenson said he was "highly honored and deeply grateful" for the resolution. But he added that he plans to make known his intentions in Chicago.

nen someone's counting on you... you can count on life insurance

Have you ever noticed how some older persons seem to have a way of smiling that's all their own? Sometimes it's almost a twinkle . . . sometimes simply an expression that says they're at peace with the world.

Your own later years can be happier because you own life insurance. Hundreds of thousands of older persons are now enjoying their retirement because of their life insurance and annuities. Last year, annuities alone provided more than $400 million to the American people. And in fact, more than half of all life insurance benefits now go to the policyholders themselves.

This is one of the reasons why you can count on life insurance...and why it is America's most widely used form of thrift.

> You may be able to arrange your present life insurance to provide a regular income when you retire. The best person to show you how this can be done is your own life insurance agent.

You'll also find helpful suggestions on retirement, family protection and other uses of life insurance in the new booklet. Your Life Insurance - and How to Use It. Your free copy will be mailed promptly; simply send your name and address on a postcard to Dept. B.

Wilson already has practically ruled out any substantial cuts in defense spending, the biggest spending next year is likely to be somewhat larger than this year's $34,500,000,000.

A similar situation is developing in the non-defense areas of federal spending. The Budget Bureau, now screening agency spending requests to prepare the fiscal 1957 budget, is faced with many requests for additional funds, some of them hard to trim or deny.

Congressional Democrats are talking of a one-billion-dollar flood control program, and large-scale programs of federal aid for schools and highways.

ANNOUNCE IMPROVED METHOD OF SCALP TREATMENT!

The never-ending search for better methods of scalp treatment has again borne fruit. The Thomas Scalp Specialists proudly announce a radically improved scalp treatment method which helps overcome hair damage.

Hair growth is inhibited when the hair follicle (tiny tube through which hair grows) becomes plugged with a cement-like admixture of keratin, cellular debris, sebum, bacteria, and undefinable detritus. Thomas treatment now includes an improved technique which results in dissolving and removing this growthchoking residue and permitting Nature to continue its normal hair-growing activity. This technique was made a part of the 35-year proved Thomas treatment only after extensive research, supervised by dermatologists, had definitely established its merit!

What does this mean to YOU? It means that now, you, too can take new hope in your fight to maintain a healthy scalp, thus promoting normal hair growth. See how Thomas can help you, too, to remove itchy dandruff. Come in today for a complete, free scalp examination (in private) and let the Thomas expert show you exactly how Thomas treatment works and how it can help you!

Latter Accuses Fellow Democrat of 'Making Mountains Out of. Molehills.'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (UP)

—Two New York Democratic congressmen traded barbed remarks today over the conduct of a House Juriciary subcommittee's investigation of the case of Public Buildings Commissioner Peter A. Strobel.

Representative Sidney Fine accused Acting Chairman Emanuel Celler of "making mountains out of molehills." Celler retorted that Fine was "an excellent advocate" for Strobel.

Celler has questioned the tains out of molehills." Celler retorted that Fine was "an excellent advocate" for Strobel.

Celler has questioned the propriety of Strobel maintaining his interest in the New York engineering firm of Strobel & Salzman since becoming public buildings commissioner on July 1, 1954.

The subcommittee is holding hearings to determine whether there has been any violation of federal "conflict of interest" laws in the case.

Sol Schwarz, business manager of Strobel & Salzman, testified that Strobel gave up active management of the firm when he became public buildings commissioner. But he said that Strobel accompanied him on a visit to the office of the New York architectural firm of Ferrenz & Taylor to solicit business for the engineering firm. Strobel conceded that Ferrenz & Taylor is on a list in his agency of from 90 to 100 top architects available for Government work.

Strobel denied any impropriety in his visit, but Celler commented that Strobel was "rather careless in his conduct to say the least."

Mansure Testifies.

Edward F. Mansure, General Services Administrator who is Strobel's boss, 'testified that when Strobel took office he approved of his maintaining his interest in the engineering firm. But Mansure stipulated that Strobel was not to carry on "business activities" on behalf of it.

Mansure said that he personally was responsible for the award of a GSA contract to the architectural firm of Robert & architectural firm of Robert & architectural firm of Robert & architectural firm of Robert & half of it.

Mansure said that he personally was responsible for the award of a GSA contract to the architectural firm of Robert & Co. of Atlanta, Ga., which is headed by Lawrence W. (Chip) Robert, former treasurer of the Democratic national committee. He said he did not know then that Strobel's firm had had business dealings with the company. But he said he took personal charge of that contract because there was some criticism "from local people in Georgia" about awarding somuch Government business to a Democratic fund raiser. He indicated that if it is determined that Strobel's actions violated ethical standards, he would be asked to either discontinue. his private business activities c. leave his Government job.

By the Associated Press.

As questioning proceeded the committee was expected to ask Mansure about Strobel's testimony that Mansure strongly recommended a New York architectural firm, DeYoung and Moskowitz, to help plan a new headquarters building for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Strobel said he and Mansure gained the impression that this arrangement was satisfactory to CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, but that Dulles objected after he had notified DeYoung and Moskowitz and directed that the notification be canceled.

Dulles had selected the New York firm of Harrison and Abromowitz as the principal architects for the projected $36,000,000 building. Strobel said he and Mansure urged that another firm be taken in on an associate basis on the ground the job was too big for any one firm.

Strobel said his own firm earlier this year signed a contract to do about $30,000 worth of work on a New York City

War Threat in Middle East Overshadows Geneva Concern With Security of Europe

West Has No Clear Idea of What Course to Follow but Israelis Fear for Their Nation's Survival and Demand Action -They Blame U.S. for Crisis.

HE POWER POLITICS of the Middle East-oil, fanatic Arab nationalism, the passionate hopes and fears of the new Jewish state of Israel-overshadows the scheduled debates of this Big Four conference that is supposed to work toward a solution of German reunification and European security. The Gaza strip, is a long way from this prim city of conferences, but the sound of gunfire in that desert country can be heard quite serious border incidents will subside.

Israelis Are Desperate.

But the spokesmen for the Israeli government who have come to Geneva to present their case do not mean to let it subside. They talk with an almost desperate urgency of what they believe is a threat to the very existence of their new state.

They say that if measures are not taken to counter the sale of arms by Czechoslovakia to Enypt then Israel's present superiority of armaments will be overwhelmed and at that point Egypt's premier Gamal Abdel Nasser will attack.

Dulles, Pinay and Macmillan have all tried to calm the fears of Premier Moshe Sharett. They believe he exaggerates the dangers inherent in the arms deal. While it may be true that the deal calls for eventual delivery to Egypt of 100 jet planes, who can say whether these planes will actually be delivered or how long a time delivery will take. There is serious doubt about Egyptian capacity to service and fly any such number of jets.

Fears Are Not Quelled.

But these soft answers do not turn away the fears of Sharett, and those here with him who are sure that this is life or death for the state that is a refuge and a homeland for an oppressed people. If the Egyptians can't fly the planes themselves then they'll hire people who can, they reply. They say that there are today ten Soviet submarines in the Mediterranean. Pact With America.

At this point, say the Israeli spokesmen, in order to bring security to the Middle East the United States must become party to the pact and join in a similar defense alliance with Israel.

This will put all nations in the region truly desiring security on an equal footing, with America as the common bond, they say. The prospect of any such interlocking alliance seems remote, but the demand will be heard with ever-greater insistence. The bitter complaint of the Israeli is that if the present administration in Washington had devoted the past three years to trying to bring peace between Israel and the Arab states instead of playing power politics where the power was in any event a doubtful element, there would be peace in the region today.

There is, however, another This will put all nations in

They say that there are today ten Soviet submarines in the Mediterranean. They say that if an Israeli ship is sunk by a submarine that may be nominally under the Egyptian flag then it means war.

This is the emotional stuff out of which wars both big and little have come in the past and the outward calm of the Western ministers conceals very grave concern for the days and weeks just ahead. Their next move in the game of power politics is simply not clear.

moreover, a new phase almost certainly lies ahead. The Afghan radio has just announced the departure of a special mission to Czechoslovakia, to discuss arms purchases there—which is another version of the Egyptian pattern. In addition, Khrushchev and Bulganin are to visit the Afghan capital, Kabul, on their way to or from their visit to India's Prime Minister Nehru. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Having read the informative, candid articles in the Post-Dispatch regarding the McDonnell-Navy-Westinghouse fiasco, I wish to make the following comments:
The weight of the airplane frame was increased from 22,000 to 29,000 pounds. How could any intelligent person expect that an engine built for a 22,000-pound frame would be sufficient to power an air frame of 29,000 pounds?
Further, tests should have been made to the minutest detail before shy orders were given to fulfill the complete contract. Both McDonnell and the Navy knew the difficulties involved, and for the Navy to continue ordering the manufacture of more engines, under the circumstances, was indeed a gross mistake and the squandering of the taxpayers' money.

Also, contracts are not "let" by Government agencies without Government specifications, and when the first jet Demons were completed by Westinghouse it was up to the Navy to put the first sample engines delivered to McDonnell through rigid tests and inspections. Why the laxity?

The City of St. Louis is fortunate in having a Circuit Attorney of the caliber of Edward L. Dowd. Mr. Dowd conducted the dog pound investigation and also cleaned up the

True But Not Often
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It is true as you say that the same wire that brings electricity to the farm can also bring the telephone.
But in practice it does not happen very often. If it were the case it would not be necessary to erect over 45,000 miles of pole line.
To bring both services it is necessary to use carrier equipment. Both the Bell System and the independent telephone companies have found it is more economical to erect pole lines than to install carrier equipment.
Carrier equipment designed for power line use is expensive, and it is only used when distances are great and subscribers few.

Backing for Mr. Benson

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has scored a major triumph within the Eisenhower Adminis-tration. He has had his first hospital conference with the convalescing President and out of it has come Mr. Eisenhower's unqualified indorsement of the Benson farm policies.

The method the President used in giving full backing to his embattled Secretary of Agriculture was impressive as well as striking. After what appears to have been the ailing executive's first "controversial" conference, he issued through Press Secretary Hagerty a statement so clear that no one has any excuse for misquoting it. In substance it is this:

No problem . . . is more demanding of our best ideas. . . Caught under the grinding pressure of price-depressing surpluses, the farmers today are not getting a return . . . in line with that enjoyed by other segments of our population . . . What has been done in the last three years . . . is sound . . . We agreed that we should not go back to old policies that have failed to meet the problems of the past . . , New steps . . are necessary in order to speed the time when production and markets are in balance at prices that return to our farmers a fair share. . . . that return to our farmers a fair share I shall submit my farm recommendations to the Congress in a special message early in January.

This statement gives Secretary Benson all the backing he needs to continue on his present course at least until January when the new recmendations, which the Agriculture Secretary himself doubtless will draw up, are presented to Congress. Thus the Administration farm policy continues to be flexible price supports plus such additions as the new pork buying venture which is so small an effort in the over-all as to change the price situation only slightly, if at all.

But if the President's wholehearted indorsement of Mr. Benson's program settles the position of the White House for now, it gives the Republican dissidents in the farm belt fresh if useless excuse for demanding the resignation of the Secretary. For example, Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin joined the opposition in a speech for a Boston audience. Unfortunately for the sick President, the problem will not stay on the shelf for very long. On the domestic scene there is nothing to touch it for explosiveness in the 1956 campaign.

For as Sam B. Armstrong, the Post-Dispatch's national correspondent, put it Sunday after a tour of the Iowa area, the Administration is gambling with the favor of states which will count for 178 votes in the Electoral College. And that is two-thirds enough to elect a President.

Compounded They Stay

The County Assessor's office is exhibiting surprising early speed in spending the $20,000 that Supervisor Matthews made available for what is supposed to be a start on a parcel-by-parcel reassessment of county real estate.

Some 30 extra employes have been added to the Assessor's payroll, and they are at work in two shifts. But as one of Assessor Deuser's deputies has made clear, they are merely changing tax record books to reflect the recent blanket increase in valuations. They are not reassessing anything.

Just about everybody in the county government, and especially Supervisor Matthews, has said that assessments are unfair and that the blanket increase compounded this unfairness. Expressly to cure this basic condition the Council offered a plan for a complete, scientific, non-political reassessment to be completed within two years by private appraisal firms.

The paper-work now being done in Assessor Deuser's office has no relation to such a reassessment, and no county taxpayer should be fooled into thinking that the one is a substitute for the other. Not only are Mr. Deuser's 30 new employes not engaged in parcel-by-parcel reas-sessment, but if they ever get to it the chances are all against their accomplishing the job in the time contemplated by the Council.

Which is to say that the assessment inequities which were complained of last summer are still compounded, and until a real and comprehensive revaluation is accomplished they are going to stay compounded.

If the Aldermen Give the Word

The Aldermen ought to give the taxpayers a break and permit schools and other public buildings in St. Louis to be constructed of materials other than masonry. The school system is now in the midst of, a $16,000,000 building program authorized by the voters last spring. It surely should be in a position to make use of any new materials that come along, especially if this means more for the money. Similarly the city itself ought not to be restricted on how it spends that part of the $110,000,000 public improvement bond issue that goes into new buildings.

Last December the Aldermen amended the building code so as to permit metal panels to be used in the exterior walls of buildings with more than 100,000 square feet of floor space. But they specifically prohibited the use of such panels in the construction of schools and hospitals.

The School Board also needs authority to take advantage of the substantial cash savings possible when light gauge steel and concrete are employed as the frame for smaller schools. Aldermen actually permitted this type of building briefly in 1951, but reversed themselves when the bricklayers put on the pressure.

What St. Louis really needs, of course, is a building code entirely based on performance. This would permit the use of any material that met certain standards of strength, fire resistance and other qualities. Drafting of such a code is the task of a committee appointed almost a year ago. In the meantime, the Aldermen ought to make whatever changes are necessary to permit the schools and the city to take advantage of twentieth-century materials and construction methods. Pockets of Unemployment

Our letter column Sunday presented a communication from Senator Douglas of Illinois concerning need for federal help for areas in which unemployment has brought economic and social distress. There can be no question as to the urgency of this situation in many communities and the Eisenhower Administration now recognizes this with its announcement of an "eco nomic Point IV" program for this country.

As Senator Douglas says, his bill enjoyed the co-sponsorship of several other Senators, namely, Kilgore and Neely of West Virginia, Kefauver o Tennessee, McNamara of Michigan, Humphrey of Minnesota, Murray of Montana and Kennedy Massachusetts, all Democrats. The bill was introduced July 28, read twice and referred to the Labor Committee. About the same time Republican Senator Payne of Maine made a speech which he urged an effective attack on the prob-lem of area unemployment and distress.

Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman cf the President's Council of Economic Advisers, went a long way in his Denver announcement. he did. Senator Douglas and others who have had this problem on their minds and hearts can take some little satisfaction in the change. It suggests that they were tagged "prophets of doom and gloom" last year, not because they were calamity howlers, but because it appeared to be the expedient thing to do politically. The Illinois Senator's letter makes interesting collateral reading.

Teacher Salaries Over 50 Years

Salaries of teachers, on the whole, have been rising in recent years. It is easy therefore to fall into the way of thinking that at least a beginning has been made toward removing the economic disparity which has so long branded education in our society.

Anybody who has comforted his conscience with this thought will get a sharp joit on reading Beardsley. Ruml's report on teaching salaries, just published by the Fund for the Advancement of Education. Mr. Ruml and Sidney G. Tickton studied educational salaries over the past 50 years alongside salaries in other callings, and measured both against the cost of living.

Their finding is that most teachers have actually slipped in the economic scale over this period. They are relatively more poorly paid now than in 1904, and would need salary increases of more than 100 per cent in many cases to be brought abreast of workers in other areas of the economy.

To take just one of many statistical examples cited in this careful study, the average big city high school teacher received in 1904 a salary of $1597 a year. Today he receives $5526 a year -but in terms of real purchasing power after taxes, that is worth just $1577, or substantially the same as the value of the 1904 salary.

A railroad conductor, by contrast, earns on the average $6676 a year today, which represents a gain in real purchasing power after taxes of 68 per cent over his earnings 50 years ago. Auto workers have gained 140 per cent in real purchasing power, coal miners 163 per cent, electrical manufacturing workers 131 per cent.

Clearly there is no room for complacency on this question of teaching salaries, even though some teachers-mainly in elementary schools and universities-have improved their economic position somewhat. So long as law, medicine, advertising, and many technical skills continue to be more attractive economically, education will continue to lose many of the most talented young people to those callings. Mr. Ruml says this means that "the American society is deteriorating in the sector most critical for future progress and well being."

Branch Rickey! Judas Priest!

Beyond all argument, Branch Rickey proved that it pays to have a brain in baseball, a brain with talent at its command. And regardless of the standing of the Pittsburgh Pirates, he also proved that a brain is useful in finding talent. Consider the glories of the Gas-House Gang. Behind those boldest of the Redbirds was the farm system built up by Rickey. Or consider the glories of the Brooklyn Dodgers, recently brightened by a world's championship. Behind them was the well of Negro baseball talent first tapped Consider also the Pirates. There Rickey drew on the energy of youth, the best brand of energy in the world. The trouble was that the draft drew on Rickey. As he said: "It's the Biblical story of the widow's mite. They are taking from my poverty." But players like the O'Briens and Groat now are out of military uniforms and back in baseball uniforms, and Pirate prospects are looking up. But if glory comes to Pittsburgh, Rickey will be there only in an "advisory capacity.

People like Bing Crosby, who owns a piece of the Pirates, only showed themselves up when they jibed at Rickey's baseball ideas, his logic or his oratory. Didn't he back his ideas with a good bit of his own money and by working for a while without a salary? But patience always was rare around a ball park.

There are those-and they are not few-who ould welcome Rickey back to St. Louis even if there are no baseball jobs open here. Like Red Smith, they remember him as "a player, manager, executive, lawyer, preacher, horsetrader, spellbinder, innovator, husband and father and grandfather, farmer, logician, obscurantist, reformer, financier, sociologist, crusader, sharper, father confessor, checker shark, friend

Submarines, Full Speed Ahead

An atomic powered submarine with a speed equal to that of the fastest surface ship in a task force would indeed be a weapon with tremendous possibilities. So the world admiralties must be taking great interest in the announcement by Rear Admiral H. G. Rickover in a speech at San Francisco that the Navy is soon to start construction of such a formidable ship. Adm. Rickover, who played a major part in the building of the first atomic submarine, the 3000-ton Nautilus, said the new boat would be powered by two nuclear propulsion plants instead of one. It also will displace 5000 tons and be fast enough to operate with a fast carrier task force and to provide it with radar information." Such a submarine, able to scout far ahead and warn of approaching ships or planes, would be of much protection to our 60,000-ton aircraft carriers of the new Forrestal class. With a speed of around 40 knots it could accompany a Forrestal task force on any mission.

Such a submarine might easily duck under the 5,500,000-mile square Arctic icecap, which varies from 4 to 40 feet thick, in water 12,000-feet deep, and come out 6000 miles away off Mur-mansk, Russia. It could far surpass the feat of the diesel-engined Redfish which in 1952 traveled a short distance under the icecap in a voyage still surrounded with secrecy. The new submarine would be able to travel several times as fast as the Redfish did.

Since the Navy announced several years ago that it had perfected a homing torpedo capable of chasing and destroying a submarine at great depths, it is to be wondered whether this newest type of underwater craft would be able to escape such a weapon. As a counter always appears for every weapon, the success of this highspeed craft would probably depend on whether American scientists were abreast of foreign scientists.

This nation was surprised recently to learn that Russian military aviation was right up-or even ahead-of American planes in some categories. Since submarines and the facts about them are easier to keep hidden than planes there is no way of knowing for sure whether Russia abreast of us in the submarine field.

Politicians are wondering if it will be "trick or treat" at the polls next year.

WHAT ABOUT THE FRONT END?

Today every service has its own air arm, chiefly because there is no agreement, either in the field or in the Pentagon, on the matter of priority. The Air Force, charged with continental defence and stornic retalistics in defense and atomic retaliation in the event of attack, feels it must give a lesser rating to troop support and trans-port. The Army is training its own air port. The Army is training its own air observers and spotters in what amounts to an Army Air Corps.

The Navy maintains its own air arm

The Navy maintains its own air arm on the grounds that it cannot operate without the air defense and striking power that the Air Force cannot provide. The Marine Corps maintains its own planes to give close troop support and for troop rescue and transportation.

and for troop rescue and transportation.

To an extent, this seeming duplication is understandable, and even excusable, for air power is the one element in modern warfare without which no other element can operate safely, and it can well be argued that no one service should have exclusive control over a weapon to the detriment of other services.

There is no excuse, however, for the consistent failure of the services to cooperate more fully in the matter of purchasing, medical care and the use of manpower. No serious attempt has been made to co-ordinate the many duplicating and costly governmental Hospitals systems, and empty service hospitals still stand within a few miles of overflowing Veterans' Administration hospitals, and the services still continue to build and maintain hospitals for their own use without regard for the overall service needs.

For Another Try After 10 Years

Congressional investigations last year also showed that the services still buy independently of each other, often competing with each other for scarce materials, stockpling goods that other services have in surplus and paying varying prices for identical articles. The services still maintain separate recruiting offices and separate manpower policies. And all of these things waste money as well as manpower.

At a time when the defense budget

At a time when the defense budget is being studied for possible reductions, we waste on duplicating functions money that could buy planes or tanks. Perhaps now, on the tenth anniversary of the unification that did not unify we should again consider what real unification offers.

ROYALTIES TO AUTHORS

Sweden is using a novel plan, adopted

Sweden is using a novel plan, adopted last year, for encouraging its authors to write good books. The Government is paying each author a small royalty on his books, based on lendings, contributing three ore (one ore is worth about one fifth of a cent) for each book loaned at a public library.

Of this allotment two ore go directly to the author and one to a special fund for the support and pensioning of deserving authors. This remuneration, modest as it is, mounts up in the case of authors whose works enjoy wide circulation.

Still Dis-Unification in Defense

The Mirror Public Opinion

Recent disputes between military services show Unification Tribute to a Charming Woman Act of 1947 is not working well; this law actually created four competing branches where two had existed; still no excuse for failure of services to co-operate in many money-saving ways.

ter of weapons.

From The Louisville Courier-Journal

There is something deeply discouraging in the news that the Army and Air Force are again at odds over the matter of aircraft support for troops.

The Army, trying to achieve the mobility that is vital in modern warfare, complains that the Air Force is so preoccupied with supersonic jets and atom bomb carriers that it is neglecting the less glamorous but equally important function of moving ground troops by plane.

ground troops by plane.

At present, the Air Force has 13 troop-carrying wings, and the Army had hoped that this would be increased to 17 wings by 1957. But recent cuts in defense spending have force d the Air Force to curtail its expansion plans, and the troop-carrying wings will soon be reduced to 11.

This is not the only interservice dispute over aircraft to arise in recent months. The Navy lashed out at Air Force plans to take over the Navy's new jet-powered seaplane, which has as much speed and range as most landbased medium bombers.

Where Does the Failure Lie?

Where Does the Failure Lie?

The Navy contends, and with seme ustification, that operation of waterporne craft is the Navy's job, and that he Air Force should not attempt to luplicate the bases and tenders necesary to maintenance and operation of seaplanes.

The depressing aspect of these disputes is heightened by the fact that it was just 10 years ago this month that Congress, reacting to the lessons of World War II, undertook a unification of the armed forces that was designed to put an end to all, interservice rivairies, differences and disputes.

To what extent the unification attempt has been a failure, and whether the failure lies in legislative or human frailty are matters of wide disagrees.

frailty are matters of wide disagree-ment. But the unavoidable fact is that unification has not unified.

Interservice rivalries and disputes continue. The services differ widely on matters of strategy and priorities. There has been no effective co-ordination of training or manpower utilization. There is still no real unification of purchasing, and co-ordination of all service and governmental hospital programs is still a pipe dream.

Contention Grew From Law

Some of this can be traced to the washnesses of the unification Act, which depended for success on an interservice agreement and co-operation that never materialized. By separating the Air Force from the Army and by giving the Marine Corps semi-independence from the Navy, the law actually disunified the services by creating four contenders where only two had existed before. And the subsequent Unification Act of 1947, by staking out specific areas of supremacy for each service, only made sure that the contention would grow.

The natural reluctance of generals only made sure that the contention would grow.

The natural reluctance of generals and admirals to curtail the size or scope of their own authority, and the often-unpleasant experiences of the services in the Korean war have not helped to weld the services more closely together. During the Korean fighting, soldiers and Marines complained bitterly that the Air Force neglected close-air support for ground troops in favor of interdiction-bombing that was designed to shut off the enemy's supplies and isolate him on the battlefield.

FAMILY OF TWO WORLDS: A PORTRAIT OF HER MOTHER, by Ann Bridge, (Macmillen, 244, pgs., $4.)

With 11 novels Ann Bridge has built up a large following among readers who enjoy literate prose, fiction that is be-llevable, and foreign settings. As the wife of a British diplomat she has been able to give her stories the authenticity of their locales, from Peking ("Peking Picnic") to Turkey ("The Dark Mo-ment"). added proof of its argument that each service needed its own available airpower if it hoped to maintain men in the field under modern wartime conditions. And the entire Korean experience, which showed so clearly the importance of interservice co-operation, gave impetus, curiously enough, to increased interservice rivairy in the matter of weapons.

Now she has written a biography of her mother, and excellent as her novels are one hopes she will write more in this vein! "A Family of Two Worlds" is primarily her mother's portrait, but Ann Bridge, as a child and young girl, is part of the story. It cries for a seque!

Miss Bridge is so well recognized a craftsman that it is presumptuous to compare her work with that of other well-established contemporary writers. This reviewer, however, cannot help but mention that "A Family of Two Worlds" offers the discriminating reader the same stirring pleasure as Anne Lindberg's "A Gift From the Sea." Her mother had those qualities which all women seek to develop. She was successful in blending her ways with those ways she found in a new land, in joyfully raising a large and demanding family, and in having a rich and full inner life. ner life

Written by a woman who lived in Vienna until the time of the occupation, "No Farewell" tells a vivid story of the political schisms that developed before Hitler marched in even within families. Essentially the story of a single family, the effect of the struggle between the political parties is vividly portrayed in the development of the conflicts of two characters. It is not really a pleasant book, but it is well-written, sensitive and probably truly reflects the tortured situation in which many Austrians found themselves. themselves.

CONTROVERSY FLARES AS ART SHOW OPENS

Guild Jurors Both Praised and Censured for Slim Display.

By HOWARD DERRICKSON

The 1955 Oil and Sculpture Exhibition of the Artists' Guild, Exhibition of the Artists' Guild, open to all artists from 50 miles around, evoked sharp controversy yesterday when this smallest of all shows in the organization's 88-year history opened at the guild building, 812 Union boulevard. Out of 312 entries, only 14 have been hung.

General appearance of the galleries, decked with potted palms rented to meet the emergency, drew unanimous approval of the crowd, estimated by guild officers to be twice as large as testant for the White House.

It reminds an oldtimer, such as this reporter, of another build-up many years ago, the creation of "the strong, silent man" out of the dour, redheaded New Englander—Calvin Coolidge—who succeeded to the Presidency on the death of Warren G. guild art section. Siegfried Reinhardt, exhibi-

Siegfried Reinhardt, exhibition chairman, praised the jurors—David Strout of Kansas City and Edward Betts of Urbana, Ill.—for having "the courage of their convictions." Their "drastic decision," he declared, "is a shot in the arm!"

"More like a bombshell," said Tanasko Milovich. Other estimates ranged from "a cheap publicity stunt" to "a stroke of genius." Four established artists wagered they could assemble better shows from the 298 "rejects." "And," said Milovich, stifling a laugh, "they'd all be different, though not entirely so." They cheerfully accepted a later alteration of the mythical character from "the strong, silent man" to a cracker barrel philosopher fondly called plain "Cal," who was quoted in succinct and apt quips and posed with sheepish grin in cowboy chaps and Indian head-dress Mr. Dewey was party to the selection of Senator Richard Nixon as Vice-Presidential can-Nixon as Vice-Presidential can-didate. Mrs. Otte Durbin, the guild's executive secretary, had informed the jurors there was wall space for about 60 paintings. Pedestals were available for all the sculpture submitted. Reduction of the display to its present slim proportions was made, the jurors said, because of markedly inferior quality of omitted pieces and in order to make visitors look at each work separately and ponder on reasons for its acceptance.

At the reception, however, there was more talking than looking or pondering. The talk concerned possible reasons for the rejections.

Strout, 34 years old, and Betts, 35, are avowed experimental painters with decided notions about sculpture. In interviews they described them as they removed nearly 300 pieces from the show they had not met before.

Asked about modeled, carved and incised sculpture which they rejected, Strout declared the felt it was "just not sculpture." Both jurors commented on a prococupation with animal sits.

the season, given yesterday afternoon at the Opera House, was conducted by Harry Farbman, presented as soloists Soprano Augustine Pellerito and Pianist Evelyn Mitchell. About a fourth of the seats in the hall were occupied for the occasion.

Miss Pellerito sang the "Un bel di" from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" but she did not bring the Cho Cho San aria completely to life. One didn't expect Pinkerton to walk on stage any second. She has a pretty middle voice; her low tones are underdeveloped and her singing at forte needs to be a bit less anxious. Her other songs were by Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg.

Miss Mitchell, who is on the faculty at the St. Louis Institute of Music, was up to the technical challenges of the first movement of the Grieg A Minor Concerto. Nor did she evidence any trouble in getting into the contrasting moods. There were times in unaccompanied passages when her tone was a mite brittle and hard. For an encore the soloist played a Chopin waltz, and played it well.

Farbman did a commendable job in adjusting the orchestral sound for both soloists. And he had all necessary persuasions as the orchestra did the "Der Freischutz" overture of Von Weber, the andantino and finale of Tschiakowsky's Fourth, the Dorati transcription of Offenbach's "La Vie Parisiene" and the Wagner "Die Meistersinger" prelude. The band seemed to be giving a little more than usual at such concerts. The small crowd whipped up enough enthusiasm to win two encores. small crowd whipped up enough enthusiasm to win two encores.

TERRY BRENNAN, Leahy's youthful successor, praised Hornung's generalship in the 21-7 victory over Navy. "I really liked that fourth down play and was hoping he'd call it," Brennan said, referring to the fourth down situation with sky yards to go on the Middies' 37 at a time the game was scoreless in the second quarter.

Instead of punting, Hornung spread his halfbacks in the Split-T, slid down the line, turned inside on a keep play and went seven yards for a first down that led to the first Notre Dame score. "Welsh is good," said Brenban, "but I'll take Hornung."

Now the Browns, on a five-game winning streak, seem like money in the bank for their tenth successive division crown in the N.F.L. and the old All-America Conference. Then it's off to the home city of the Western champ for the playoff. In the Western half, however, all was confusion, with only the suddenly-fangless Detroit Lions out of the championship picture. Chicago's rampaging Bears threw the race into a deadlock by clawing the Los Angeles Rams, 31-20, for the Bears' third straight victory.

This left Los Angeles with a 4-2 record and in a deadlock with Baltimore, which nipped Green Bay, 14-10, Saturday night. San Francisco stayed in the thick of it with a 38-21 romp over Detroit, the Lions' sixth loss in as many games. San Francisco, the Bears and Green Bay all have 3-3 marksonly a game behind the leaders with six left to play.

Big Rally After 2-2 Tie at Half

By Dent McSkimming

If, as Chicago soccer men say, the Falcons team has no superior in the Chicago-Milwaukee area, St. Louis fans can look forward to some real success in the national championship tournaments this season. The basis for this optimism is the Kutis team's 6-3 triumphover the Falcons in their weekly intercity match at Oakland Stadium yesterday.

Giving up three goals may give the Kutis management some cause for worry, but that harvest of six goals against a team of good football players called for rejoicing. Except for a barrage of eight points scored against the Brewers at Milwaukee last Labor day, the Kutis forwards have not been prolific.

"You may still have a lot of trouble with the Schwabens," Manager John Zdebski of the Frients told Nick Jost, the Kutis manager, after the game. "They are a young team and they move a bit faster than we do. They held us to a scoreless tie a week ago, so you must know they have a good defense." Mexicans Fastest in League. But, Center Forward Bob Rooney and his frontline mates suddenly found a path through the maze of Chicago defenders. Passes elicked, the ball went just as intended, and the finishing punch was there when needed. But a neat pass, Rooney to Vasquez, drew Goalie Federico out and Freedie tied the count at 20 minutes. A free kick awarded against Right Fullback Egon Bluecher bore unexpected fruit when Pelizzaro's lob was headed in turn by Dick Meisemann and Vasquez for a 2-1 lead. But, 10 minutes from half time, a very fast move on the Falcons' left gave Ed Murphy a small opening from which he tied it up at 2-2.

More than 30 players, including seven varsity and seven junior varsity lettermen, are scheduled to answer Gullion's whistle opening practice for a 22-game schedule opening Dec. 2 at the Field House against South Dakota. The slate includes toughies like Michigan, Illinois, Cornell, Canisius, Utah State, Texas Western and Memphis State.

Jim Barton, Edwardsville junior who topped the scorers last season, leads a list of veterans that include Ed Cristal, Jim Paul, Les Medley, Bob Casten, Don Garrett and the coach's son, Bill Guillion. Only Cristal is a senior.

Junior varsity award winners are Eddie Diamond, John Lewis, Dave Baca, Vince Vento, Bill Farr, Don Sauer and Sil Lutkewitte. Of promising newcomers, 6-foot-8 Ken Wisniewski, who played a year at Moberly Junior College before a four-year cruise in the Navy, is especially important in view of the Bears' lack of height last year.

On the gridiron, meanwhile, Carl Snavely's athletes will prepare for the S.I.U. game after gaining a 27-0 homecoming triumph over Washington and Lee.

ing ability had not been questioned.

Southern Illinois' determination to gain a first victory over Washington after five unsuccessful tries can be appreciated simply by pointing out that the Salukis's line coach, Bob Franz, has scouted the Bears four times. Their head coach this year is Al Kawal, formerly coach at Drake and Temple. Harry Burris, Washington assistant who scouted the Carbon-dale team, which has won two lost three, and tied one, said it was the best S.I.U. squad he had seen. "They compare favorably with Drake (33-19 conqueror of the Bears) and have a better defense," said Burris.—B. B.

"As the result of a story in a national sports magazine, the faculty council of the university has decided to study the school's conduct of intercollegiate athletics," Dietrich said.

The article appeared in Sports Ilkustrated 10 days ago. But both O.S.U. athletic director Richard C. Larkins and dean Wendell D. Postle, the faculty representative to the Western Conference, pointed out the study was "routine" and had been planned months before the magazine article appeared.

Hayes, who has discussed the loans openly in the past, was unavailable for comment. Other officials had answers ranging from "no comment." through predictions of trouble to statements of complete faith in the integrity of the football situation here and predictions the excitement soon would calm.

Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, Big. Ten commissioner, here for the Ohio State-Northwestern game, told Dietrich the conference will "review the facts," after the "University has completed its investigation."

Larkins, who refused comment on the reported "personal loans or gifts" because "I have not seen nor read the article," said Wilson had planned to be here for the game "since last spring."

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)-Electric power output is heading for its brightest Christmas. Utility profits glow warmly too-even though prevented by governmental rate regulations from making the spectacular gains showing up today in some other industries. New standards of living of the American public are pulling sales of electricity 18 per cent above the year ago figures and flashing the warning light to the utilities to get set for another spurt of expansion of power

Right now they are spending more for distribution lines than for new generator installations. They are trying to keep up with the building boom in homes, offices, factories 1954, the utilities managed to turn in an 11 per cent gain over 1953 in net profit after taxes. But industry is booming, too, and using more power. One of the expanding industries is aluminum, which uses a great deal of power. Another big user is the atomic installation. The Atomic Energy Commission this year is calling for 47 billion kilowatt hours of electricity. Next year it may use 56 billion.

Of the 27 utility companies so far reporting their net profit after taxes for the first nine months of this year, six out of seven are making more money than in the same period last year. Combined their profits come to $209,685,407, a gain of 10.1 per cent over the $190,396,415 the same companies made in the first three quarters of 1954. The four among the 27 that

BUT THE ANTICIPATED INCREASED DEMAND for power in the years ahead has caused the utilities to put in orders for new generators which will have to be paid for in about two years-it takes that long to build them. Next year the utilities expect to spend $1\frac{1}{2}$ billion dollars for new capacity. In 1957 they'll spend nearly $2\frac{1}{2}$ billion, based on orders placed this year.

This doesn't add glamour to utility stocks in bull markets when other industry profits are soaring-but it makes them look attractive when other industries slow down

Pacific Northwest Wheat Men Propose Two - Price System

Committee Chairman Ellender Asserts Neither Rigid Nor Flexible Supports Will Solve Problem.

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 31 (UP)—Pacific northwest wheat growers today attacked the Administration's flexible farm price support plan and urged, instead, a two-price plan for wheat.

Spokesmen for Oregon and Washington growers told the Senate Agriculture Committee at a hearing on farm supports here their plan would offer 100 per cent of "fair income" partity props for the portion of the organization in the price on all wheat produced, said Jack L. Chairman Aniel J. Liender, (Dem.), Louisiana, of the Senate committee said in a statement that neither flexible nor rigid supports would, in themselves, solve the problem of sagging farm income.

Edward Jones, living in the 1600 block of Hickory street. Was fined $175a today after he was found guilty by Police American-owned copper operation in this country in protest against a proposed new government code regulating relations between copper workers and employers.

The shutdown hits the big three of Chilean copper production: the mine at Chuquicamata, owned by Anaconda Copper; El Teniente, of Braden Copper, and Potrerillos of the Chile Exploration Co. About 20,000 miners were estimated to be involved.

The strike was announced by Labor Minister Eduardo Yanez after repersentatives of the workers, government and mine companies failed to reach agreement on the draft of the new copper statute. The miners charge, said Yanez, that the draft does not satisfactorily consider their "economic aspirations."

Jesse James in Missouri.

Jesse James in Missouri,
Jesse James has been dead since 1882, but his ghost still packs a "smoke-wagon" in Missouri politics.
When Congressman W. R.
Hull Jr., Missouri Democrat, was asked by a book publisher for a comparison between the James family and the "Black Donnellys." the notorious outlaws of Canada, he replied:
"What are you trying to do—

What are you trying to do-"What are you trying to doget me defeated? Don't you know that the James boys are political dynamite in my district? No sir, I'm not making any statement to help you sell your book. A lot of folks in my district are against the James boys. But a lot of folks, including maybe some of their including maybe some of their relatives, have different ideas. Why should I stick my neck out."

"Besides," Hull added as an afterthought, "I'm only a freshman Congressman.

In Missouri that would be the Fourth District, now represented by George Christopher, the Sixth represented by W. R. Hull Jr., and the Eleventh where Morgan M. Moulder is the congressman.

"Missourl has more potential Republican congressmen than any other state in the nation,"

Hermann said. He urged the Missourl party workers to select candidates with unblemished records and one of the big problems, he said, is to rebuild the party or-ganization in St. Louis.

"No matter what you do outstate, you can't win if you get hit head-on by a 90,000 Demo-eratic majority in St. Louis," facturers have been ordered to pay the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union $60,000 for importing cheap cotton blouses from Japan.

The money will go to charity. An arbitrartor, F. Nathan Wolf, ruled that the imports violate a union contract clause requiring that all blouses be made in ILGWU union shops. The ruling was made public yesterday.

yesterday.

The Union, headed by David Dubinsky, has long advocated lowering of trade barriers as an encouragement to world peace. In this case, however, Dubinsky vaid: said:
"We have promised to co-operate with the employers in our industry in their efforts to seek relief from Washington in the relief from Washington in the form of quotas on imports or higher tariffs.

A spokesman for the three companies involved said they "repeatedly informed the union that they were willing to make contributions to a joint fund to be used in urging higher tariffs, advecting trade guotas or pro-advocating trade quotas or pro-moting purchase of American blouses. . . . "If the jobbers under con-

ANY HOME that has young children in it is a daily quiz show, a program interrupted only by meals or bedtime.

But the questions children ask are much more searching than those asked on television programs. The answer to even a $100,000 question on television is, after all, a simple matter of information that can be found by looking in a reference book.

It has to be that way. If the question didn't have a simple clear-cut answer, everybody would get confused and contestants would start suing the sponsors to collect the $100,000.

THE QUESTIONS asked by small children would ruin any TV quiz show, stump any panel of experts—because they often can't be answered simply and easily. A child's queries reflect the collision of a small mind with all the wonder that lies about it. Any child can ask a question that would take a 70-year-old philosopher weeks to explain—or leave him dumbfounded.

As children get older and shyer, they cease to ask these life-prodding questions. They pull down the curtain on their doubts and thoughts, and we miss looking through the little open windows by which we felt we knew them.

HELEN AND GEORGE are wise parents. As each of their children passed through the question-asking stage, they jotted down the child's questions.

Later in life, at the right time, each of the girls will be given a record of what she wanted to know at four.

Danger Signals

By Dr. Paul Popence

father is constantly calling attention to it. The young man doesn't like to face any unpleasant situation.

If things go wrong, he will just 'clam up' and refuse to or sometimes he will suddenly say he's sleepy and go home to bed. On some occasions I am sure he has been so upset that he has taken to drink, although he is not ordinarily a drinking man. Considering all his good qualities, do you think I should be alarmed by these danger signals?

I do think so, Miss C. Give him the benefit of the doubt and study him carefully for a while longer if you But you ought to recognize that behavior of this sort tends to increase both in frequency and intensity as a man (or woman) grows older. He becomes more and more accustomed to relying on this evasive behavior as a means of avoiding unpleasant problems instead of facing them courageously and solving them.

I DON'T WANT to condemn him without a hearing. and after all, I have never seen him. But-presumably, you are not making him out to be any worse than he actually is. You are describing traits that indicate a serious weakness of character. If you marry him, the probability is that more and more of the daily problems will be dumped on your shoulders. Your husband will be sleeping it off in a corner, reading by himself, or "going down-

VEN the most experienced writer can err on occasion and a query of "What does that mean, Daddy?" from a five-year-old boy has uncovered a minor blunder in a book which has been highest among the juvenile best-sellers recently.

In the book Davy had just returned home after an absence of two years after an absence of two years and the excitement on the part of the rest of the family was too much for Pa Crockett. "Quiet down, now, the whole kit and caboodle of you," he commanded. The reading was stopped abruptly. "Kit and caboodle? Why did he say that?" asked the five-year-old. Well, unless Pa Crockett was well ahead of the slang of his day, he probably didn't say that. Language experts have been unable to find any record of "caboodle" as a word before 1848. Davy, who was born in 1786, was 17 when he returned home, which by simple arithmetic was in 1803. By the time the phrase "whole kit and caboodle" had become common (1888) Davy had long since made his great sacrifice at the Alamo.

"Kit," meaning a collection of anything, comes from the kit bag of a soldier in which he had to carry all his belongings. The earliest record of its use is in England in 1785. Combined with "boodle" it came to mean a collection of people.

There's a difference of opinion as to where "boodle" originated, some authorities attributing it to "buddle" (which in turn was probably Old English "bottel"), meaning a bunch or bundle. from the Dutch "boedel," meaning property. In this sense it has long been used by New England longshoremen.

How did it become "caboodle"? "Caboodle" is said to be a corruption of "kit and boodle." All of which certainly makes "whole kit and caboodle" an all-inclusive phrase—albeit one that Davy Crockett never heard of!

WELL, NEARLY every day I read about the Russians. The Russians have been world champions claimers. They claimed the invention of the airplane and quite a few other items we generally supposed were thought up by the Wright brothers and Thomas Edison and Alexander Graham Bell. The Russians made their claims through their scientists. And I noticed that our scientists remained distressingly quiet. It took Madison avenue to clear this unsettled attitude and come up with the bestest of the mostest.

I can report that "The World's Most Honored Vodka" is made in Cockeysville, Maryland! Since 1721! Let the Russians top that one

* * * distance blower to Cockeysville and found out what in the world of rye whisky they have been doing making vodka since 1721.

This goes a long, long way back. Long before the Whisky Rebellion. I didn't even know they knew about Let alone how to make it.

There is nothing said furthermore about how it got to be The World's Most Honored. Or even what they are honoring it for.

To my mind, vodka is an outlandish sort of liquor any-Used in such outlandish things as that orange juice combination called "screwdriver." It is also highly thought of in a Hollywood bistro called the Cock 'n' Bull whose owner dreamed it up while trying to unload a doubtful purchase of ginger beer. Hollywood appetites did not take to ginger beer, even in the English tavern surroundings. And they did everything except pour it over ice cream. Some genius mixed it with vodka in a copper mug and called it "Moscow Mule."

The odd point of this is that vodka has no taste whatsoever. So the very people who scorned the stone-jugged ginger beer were really getting the same flavor. With a stepped-up jolt.

In any case, it sold well and Moscow Mules are quite a thing.

THE VODKA MAKERS used to employ Irving Hoffman, the Broadway press agent, to push this material. Hoffman's method was to invade plush night clubs and have a bottle set up on his ringside table.

He would then consume this tasteless firewater with great "oohs" and "ahs" hoping to impress the bystanders. He worked at it so hard eventually he had to give up the ount. Onlookers looked on with suspicion. Irving had to drink most of it himself.

"I didn't walk out of the job," he said. "I staggered Unfortunately, Hoffman is now in Rome, presumably whacking down Strega. ("According to ancient legends, witches disguised as beautiful maidens used to mix a magic

I believe the makers of vodka claim that it is odorless. The idea being that you can dip a vodka martini at lunch and breathe on the boss with no fears.

It is not these claims that intrigue me, though. It is that we have been making The World's Most Honored right in Maryland since 1721. You can't beat an American ad

HOWEVER, THE AVERAGE 12-year-old, with his newfound maturity, is often capable of looking at things with remarkable objectivity. And of feeling considerable sympathy and understanding for other people. Thus a 12-yearold may tell you that the teacher isn't very good and doesn't teach very well, but you can't blame her: "She has a hard time because her father and her brother both died and she had rheumatism and had to go away. And when she came back she was nervous and not very nice." Another girl reported that the teacher, "Was terrible and the kids treated her terrible, but she laid herself wide open to this treatment because she treats us like babies and she sits with her legs crossed so that her garters show.

Many, however, seem to like their teacher and may even try to spare the teacher's feelings.

TWELVES LIKE TO LEARN and most can be challenged by their teacher. They like to be sure that she knows what she is talking about. In return, they are ready to be held in line and demanded of. If the teacher is not too sure of herself, is "soft" and not too good on discipline, then Twelves can lead her a merry chase. They throw spithalls: cough in unison at a prearranged time. Or, the minute the teacher is out of the room they tell risque jokes and laugh uproariously. But they tend to act this way only with those teachers who do not hold a firm and challenging hand. If a seventh grade is out of hand, it would be wise to question the capacity of that particular teacher to handle

Above all, a teacher of 12-year-olds needs to have patience and sympathy with the skirmishing and interchange and joking which goes on between boys and girls.

Cheery Hostesses at Entrance Help Ease the Way for Persons Entering Jewish Hospital

By Mary Kimbrough

HE frail, elderly woman timidly opened the door of Jewish Hospital and approached the information desk. She was alone. She had no family or friend to come with her as she checked in for a scheduled major operation.

But just inside the entrance, an attractive, smiling woman in a cherry red smock greeted her pleasantly, escorted her to the admitting office. When the papers had been filled out and it was time for the patient to go to her room, the uniformed woman again appeared to take her to an upper floor. She introduced her to the nurse on duty, then walked with her to duty, then walked with her to her room. She hung up her hat and coat, pointed out the pub-lic telephone just down the hall, told her about the gift gallery downstairs if she wished to make any purchases, and of-fered to make any necessary calls for her or deliver any

The woman in the red smock was a volunteer for "Operation Hostess," one of 22 who are on duty each week, helping to ease the anxiety in the hearts of incoming patients, greeting them as warmly and as courte-ously as they would welcome guests into their own homes. The hostess service is the latest addition to the rapidly-growing list of assignments for volun-teers.

addition to the rapidly-growing list of assignments for volunteers.

Although she helps take the burden off the shoulders of nurses, by seeing that a patient is settled in her room, the hostess doesn't remain and visit, or drop in for small talk. She does, however, make sure that a patient receives his messages and his flowers promptly, and sees that errands are run if the patient requests her to do so.

"Her job," said Mrs. Samuel Rosenkranz, director of volunteers, "is to help create an atmosphere of warmth and friendliness. We feel she can help interpret the hospital to the patient, give him the support he needs when he is ill or ready to undergo an operation."

Because the hostess often is the first person an incoming patient meets, volunteers are selected carefully for this program. They must be trustworthy, kind-hearted. They must present an attractive appearance and they must themselves be sold on the value of the program as a medium of service to

-Secrets of Charm

The Art of Staying Young

GET YOUR BEAUTY SLEEP IF YOU'RE TIRED

There is no age ceiling on charm. The secret of mature charm is agelessness. The secret of staying young is a matter of remaining mentally youthful, alert, and interested in what is going on.

Any type of outside interest is important because it brings novelly into your life. Since the capacity to charm grows in proportion to one's interests, as well as personality and values, the majority of women rarely fulfill their potentials before reaching mature years.

Hobbies are excellent youthifiers. In addition to the service she gives the patient, the hostess also is responsible for directing visitors to hospital areas, assisting at the information desk and keeping the waiting room in order just as she would straighten up the living room of her own home. Much of the volunteer work at Jewish Hospital is conducted by members of the Women's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Harry Milton is president. Auxiliary members operate a gift gallery and library for patients in addition to their staff duties.

* * * * *

The gift gallery is just like a commercial store, with infant wear, gowns, supplies for nurses, candy, cigarettes and gift items on sale. There is no paid help. All the work is done by auxiliary members.

Volunteers also take carts through the hospital with gift items or notions for patients unable to leave their room to visit the gallery.

An advertisement in a recent copy of the hospital mewspaper put out a "help wanted" call for the gift gallery, as well as for "females; age (no questions asked); to operate service cart to patients" rooms; remuneration: tired feet but smiling patients."

"They do get tired feet and aching backs," said Mrs. Rosen-kranz. "But in addition, they have the satisfaction of knowhave the satisfaction of knowing how much they are helping the patients, and the hospital."

The auxiliary sponsors a Tribute Fund to which persons are invited to contribute in honor of memory of relatives or friends. From this, a gift of $3000 is donated annually to the hospital for medical research. In addition, $10,000 is given from gift gallery proceeds each year for the nurses' residence and a project to renovate and refurnish the building is already underway. ready underway ready underway.

Next on the auxiliary schedule, Mrs. Milton said, is the establishment of a coffee shop to seat 100 guests. That will require $30,000 for fixtures, and the goal is already in sight.

There are 2000 members of the auxiliary, many of whom are active workers, while others contribute money instead of time. Pass 64 (final bid)
The bidding technique employed by East-West had two serious flaws. For one thing, it was too successful in convincing the enemy that a heart lead would be futile; and for the second and more important thing, it gave North the chance to double five clubs and thereby indicate a lead that would be highly favorable to the defense. The British master sitting South opened a club against the slam contract—and East could go fishing.

contribute money instead of time.

But the women aren't the only ones who want to help. Men have inquired about the possibility of volunteer service. Mrs. Rosenkranz says, and she hopes to put them to work in the near future.

"I don't know where they'll serve," she said. "Maybe they'll just sit around and talk baseball with the male patients. But that could be a very good way to make those patients happy."

Novel School P.T.A. Groups Project in The Army

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK RECENTLY I heard of a project which should be of great interest to all parents of men going into the Army, as well as to the men themselves. The Army has been doing a good deal of work with correspondence courses, but I don't think the average person has felt there was a great deal of interest—on the part of officers and non-commissioned of-interest—on the part of officers and non-commissioned officers, or on the part of soldiers themselves — in really furthering, education.

The particular project I have heard of is an educational program in which Battery A 24th AAA Msl. Bm. has taken part.
The battery is stationed at Nahant, Mass. Its commander, Capt. Harold Stahlman; initisted the program, has supportcapt. Haroid Stanimar, initiated the program, has supported it consistently and taken great interest in its development, which is of course the reason for its success.

reason for its success.

THIS BATTERY is a link in our continental air defense. It must be constantly vigilant for air attack: Secrecy surrounds the men's work, and there is little opportunity for outside activity. Many of the men had not finished high school, and it was arranged that the Lynn school system should give credit for all work satisfactorily completed. In that way, a man can finish his high school work at the Lynn schools and thus be awarded a diploma.

In other cases, men are taking courses in such varied subjects as music appreciation or elementary psychology.

UNDER THE I and E offi-

UNDER THE I and E officer's direction, men in the bat-tery who are qualified act as tutors for the men taking courses for credit. Often they encourage a boy to go on with his work when he might other-wise decide it was too much trouble. As a result ait is not trouble. As a result, it is not unusual, out of a battery of approximately 90 men, to find as many as 40 taking courses either at high school or at adult extension levels: Minor Skin Misery

This dressy afternoon and "little dinner" model looks like a two-piece dress, but the effect is achieved by setting the buttoned, elongated bodice well below the waist. The wide open neckline is decorated with a notched petal collar, darted to give shape. Very special is the skirt for it is cleverly worked out with long darts that taper out about three quarters of the way down. The result is an extremely flattering silhouette with controlled fullness. But the next time you find a girl you like, go ahead and. date her and when your mother starts to complain, put your foot down-in loyalty to the girl-and tell your mother you'd rather not hear any more criticism. have the right to make your own decisions.

HERE IS THE ANSWER to "Need Help," the woman who was dating a married man and taking him away from his wife: Go ahead and take him. Let his wife care for herself. After all, dear, she's only had him 30 years and that's long enough. Frankly, she'll be better off without him. Settle down and behave. Be the mother your son wants you to be. Be a woman in the real sense of the word. Read your Bible and see yourself as others see you.

YOUR READER'S OPINION

IN ANSWER to "Need Help." This woman who is already a three-time-loser, is heading for a terrible letdown. From what she says she should kneel and pray for forgiveness. How could anyone stoop so low as to do something like this? As for a chance of happiness with this man, she strikes out right now. If her son had any sense, he would leave her. In the name of heaven, she should leave this poor woman and man alone forever!

The Negro who drove the station wag on belonging to the Hotel Lido was, I am sure, of unmixed blood. Black as obsidian, his lean profile had the carven elegance of a cameo. He lacked the characteristic exuberance of the islanders, but his quiet competence was very reassuring.

Twice a day he made the fourproject of the United States Children's Bureau, has a name for these boys and girls from "good homes" who get into trouble. He calls them Suburban Delinquents, and he quiet-competence was very reassuring.

Twice a day he made the fourmile trip from the hotel to the port city-of Fort-de-France, taking guests in for some shopping. Often he did errands forme, making small purchases, having my typewriter repaired, or my straw sandal rewoven.

Toward the end of my stay, he said, as he handed me the postcards he had bought, "Vous

S GRAY, faded blonde, or salt-and-pepper hair making you unhappy? If you just don't like gray hair, or if you just don't like the color of the hair which nature handed you, why not change it for a color that you like and one that is becoming to you?

The solution to your hair coloring problem is a color shampoo treatment. You can kiss your husband goodby in the morning as a rather drab graying blonde and you can welcome him home in the evening as a radiant silver blonde. Will he be surprised? Yes, and pleased too, I think A man likes to have the "little woman" look young, fresh and happy. It's a lift to his ego.

TO MANY WOMEN, and men too, nothing implies that she's "growing older" so much as graying hair. If you are of that group and you want to maintain the illusion of youth, make up your mind today. Put yourself in the hands of a professional beautician. Her professional training will give you confidence and the color shampoo treatment will result in just the shade you want.

This advice today is for the women who do not want gray hair. You can choose from a dozen shades, but when you decide, remember this: You must change your makeup shades to go with your new hair color. When you have your hair colored with modern preparations you will find that your hair will behave exactly as does untinted hair on so far as having permanents, brushing, shampooing and exposure to sun and perspiration are concerned. It just acts natural and looks natural. You can tell your husband and your public what you have done or just keep it a secret and enjoy your new-found glamour.

NEW FURNISHINGS FIT A MAN'S TASTE AND DEMANDS.

New furnishings show definite influence of a man's taste and demands. His big chair has become very smart to look at, but it doesn't forget a detail of his preferred lazy lounging comfort. NOTHER lost masterpiece—the Paganini Concerto No. 4 in D Minor—has been found and put into circulation. Paganini himself played it for the first time in Paris on March 23, 1831, and it was heard no more until November of 1954, when Arthur Grumiaux and the La-

This episode lightens the pages of music history with a pleasong touch of human interest but the artistic consequences of this resurrection are negligible. The qualities of the recovered concert are already familiar to music lovers through the D Major Paganini concerto a surface warmth and facile tunefulness. Grumlaux plays it effectively. Overside the Paganini D Major is played by Herman Krebbers with the Hague Philharmonic Orchestra under Willem van Otterloo. Krebbers has a lush, sensuous tone which he uses like a thick, viscous sauce. Sound reproduction is wholly satis-

OTHER CONCERTI: Gezi Anda reads the Beethoven C Major Plano Concerto as lyric poetry which it is, though not wholly so. His recorded performance with the Philharmonia Orchestra under Alceo Galliera has a consistent fluency of line with discriminatingly inflected phrasing. Completing the second side, Mr. Anda gives a freshly poetic performance of Beethoven's 'Moonlight" Sonata, first movement and an assertive statement of the rest. The reproduction is somewhat lacking in resonance. one 12-inch LP.)

Nathan Milstein and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra with William Steinberg conducting lack nothing except grandeur in their new recording of the Beethoven Violin Concerto, (Capi-LOEWS STATE tol, one 12-inch LP.) Milstein plays with clarity, effective tonal projection and a close connection of ideas. But somehow it all sounds rather confined. Sound reproduction is excellent.

OPERA: London has gone into Yugoslavia and come out with a number of works by regional composers who are unknown in the United States. Of that later. Another result of this excursion is a recording of Mussorgsky's opera "Khon vantchina" by a cast, chorus and orchestra from the Belgrade National Opera, Melanie Bugarinovick is the conductor. Like "Boris," this opera is a miscellany of loosely connected scenes and the musical language, too, is strongly influenced by orthdox liturgical service and Russian folk music. The running dialogue is expressive and strong but it has no climactic features comparable to the great monologues and choruses in "Boris." The performance is competent but Belgrade is obviously not on a par with Vienna or Milan. Sound reproduction is good.

★ ★ ★ SYMPHONY: The ninetieth birthday of Jan Sibelius, which falls on Dec. 8 of this year, is celebrated by flashing performances of the Fourth and Fifth Symphonies in which Eugene Ormandy conducts the Philadelphia Orchestra. (Columbia, one 12-inch LP.) Rich and glittering sonorities plus an incisive technique contribute an impressive splendor to the Fifth Symphony. One is a little too conscious of the magnificent instrument, how ever, in listening to the unearthly meditations of the Fourth Symphony. It is still impressive but too sensuous. So far as nd reproduction is concerned the recording could hardly be better according to present standards.

ORGAN: The fourth volume devoted to Albert Schweitzer's playing of Bach's organ works contains the familiar D Minor Toccata and Fugue plus four Preludes and Fugues. Dr. Schweitzer's deliberate tempos may subdue excitement but they are certainly favorable to a complete articulation of the linear These recordings were made in the parish church at Gunsbach, Alsace, Or. Complaint

WHEN a belonging stops running or breaks or otherwise fails it—is customary to take it back to the people from whom it was bought and make a complaint.

But once it is decided to make a complaint one must be prepared to be told that the fault is incomprehensible. It will be pointed out that only the very best materials were used in the construction and that the work was done by the most skilled craftsmen who are masters of the art.

It will be emphasized that the producer has had years of experience and that the factory in which it was made is staffed with men possessing the famous American know-how.

In short, while they may not

CHAPTER SIXTEEN
CLOUDS piled up near the horizon and moved rapidly across the wide arch of the sky. The moon was obscured now. An uneasy wind whimpered over the plains.
Molly Braden was thinking of Matt's last remark. That he had no right to love her because of his financial position. "Money has nothing to do with it," she said touching his arm in a gesture of sympathy. "I feel that Walter is more suitable but not because of money."

"Are you trying to say you wouldn't marry me, if I had as much money."

"The said contrictely. "I was acting like an adolescent and I'm sorry." shotling to forgive," Molly said stiffly.

"I shouldn't have thrown your money up to you. After all, it's not your fault. If I'm dumb enough to fall in love with the richest girl in Texas, better six my problem." Molly was annoyed. "It isn't to me. If I loved a man it wouldn't matter if he had a dime. It should work vice versa."

"Are you trying to say you wouldn't marry me, if I had as much money?"

Stung by his attitude she went back to her horse and swung easily into the saddle. "There you go. Rubbing it in. Being superior. You've never earned a nickel in your life."

"Don't you think this conversation has gone on long enough?" Molly asked. "I don't have to argue with you about money or anything else. Your attitude only convinces me Walter would make a better husband."

He patted his hotse's coat gently but his black eyes were full of anger. "You're as stubborn as a mule, Molly Braden, and you're going to learn the hard way. You're not in the least in love with Walter. You've been evading him ever since you became engaged."

"That's not true. It was because of H. J."

"Only partly. In your heart, if you have one, you're in love with me."

She wheeled her horse about and began a furious gallop toward El Rancho, Laughing, Matt followed her. The rain came suddenly in giant drops, splattering against the dust. Lightning split the sky and thunder traveled through the with walter in love you. Matt. I never lid. I don't think you really stoney—H. J.'s money, I should say."

A REPORT was published a few weeks ago about an experiment of the American Government. A sled (without anyone riding in it) was said to have traveled more than 20 miles a minute. The aled was propelled by jet or rocket power.

"Liar," he whispered, but she pulled away.

"That has nothing to do with it. You don't argue with him because he lets you do exactly as you please."

"If it weren't for him I'd never find out who's blackmailing H.J." she reminded him.

"Anyone could hire a private eye, Moily. You could have done it yourself. That's no reason to marry him."

Her eyes blazed. "I love him.

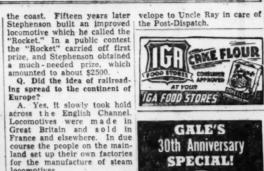

"Yes," she said weakly, but in his arms her defenses crumbled.

"Liar," he whispered, but she pulled away.

"This isn't the answer, Matt. I've told you that before. It takes more than a kiss to make a marriage as far as I'm concerned."

Without looking back she climbed into her saddle and galloped through the rain to El Rancho, She found Wong waiting anxiously for her at the front door.
